

ABSTRACT

A counterpoise device for cantilevering at least one cylinder of a printing press has a movable counterpoise element for selectively contacting the cylinder and a stationary mount. A guide link rotatably attaches to the stationary mount plate and rotatably attaches to the movable counterpoise element. An actuating device is connected to the movable counterpoise device at a different location than the guide link for moving the counterpoise device with respect to the cylinder.